All about this bottle

Samuel Gelston's Irish Single Pot Still Whiskey is a whiskey made by a single distillery from a mixture of malted and unmalted barley, distilled together in a traditional copper pot still. It is not a blend, it is not a Single Malt, it is a completely unique expression that is full of body & character. Nose: Green notes, lemon-drizzle cake and cooked citrus. Palate: Walnut and candied pecan, cacao nibs and cereal. Finish: Chocolate orange, sweet breakfast porridge.
